

LOYALTY CANDIDATE IS WINNER IN THE CONTEST BY NINETEEN THOUSAND

CHAIRMAN WEST OF THE REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS, CLAIMS LENROOT'S ELECTION BY 19,910 PLURALITY OVER HIS DEMOCRATIC OPPONENT.

SIX COUNTIES ARE STILL TO BE HEARD FROM

Majority of These It is Claimed Will Increase Victor's Lead Materially—Associated Press Figures Far More Conservative Give Lenroot But 8,885 Plurality.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3.—Two-thirty P. M.—Chairman West of the republican headquarters this afternoon placed Irvine Lenroot's plurality at 19,910 with six counties missing which will add to his final figures. The figures given out are Lenroot, 128,828; Davies, 108,918; Berger, 75,255. The missing counties are Buffalo, Dunn, Rusk, Barron, Bayfield and Pepin.

"Lenroot's election is assured," said Mr. West, "and his final plurality will be considerably over twenty thousand."

Milwaukee, April 3.—Belated returns from yesterday's election confirmed the victory of Lenroot, republican, for senator. His plurality at noon was 8,875. With nineteen counties complete and comparatively full report from all but four others, the vote stood Lenroot, 130,508; Davies, 121,831; Berger, 85,038.

Missing Returns. The missing counties were Bayfield, Clark, Iron and Schwano. These will maintain Lenroot's winning margin as they are safely republican. The last hope for Davies disappeared with returns from all but thirty-four Milwaukee county precincts which gave Davies a lead over Lenroot of 14,555 and this was not sufficient to overcome the Lenroot plurality in other parts of the state of 24,130.

Mr. Davies said of the election: "There is no doubt but that the election demonstrated that Wisconsin and the country is overwhelmingly behind the president of the United States. Mr. Lenroot's strong appeal and that which brought him much of his support from the people of Wisconsin were his strong profession he would support the president in all his measure necessary to win the war."

"That is the big thing after all. My party and my friends and many men whom I did not know gave most generous support to the cause I stood for." The Milwaukee city council remains under control of non-partisan aldermen. Rosenberry defeated Crownhart for justice of supreme court by overwhelming majority.

Rosenberry Winner. Milwaukee, April 3.—Charles H. Crownhart, a leader of the La Follette wing of the republican party, was beaten in the election for supreme court justice yesterday. Scattered returns gave election of Justice Marvin R. Rosenberry by 50,000 majority. Victor L. Berger was able to deliver part of the Milwaukee socialist vote to Crownhart, but out in the state where the La Follette vote went to Berger, it did not extend to Crownhart.

Early Reports. Milwaukee, April 3.—With four precincts not heard from the vote of Milwaukee county, including the city, was Lenroot 15,442; Davies 29,997; Berger 21,907.

Are Hoping. Opponents of socialism despite the re-election of Socialist Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, who made head of his ticket, found some solace today in the apparent defeat of the six socialist candidates for alderman at large and in the re-election on the face of returns from 103 out of 143 precincts of the non-partisan candidate for city treasurer and city controller and city attorney, many ward elections remained in doubt. Percy Braman, the non-partisan university candidate, ran behind his ticket the precincts reported up to 7:30 A. M. gave Hoan, 27,227 and Braman, 24,607.

Racine County. Racine, Wis., April 3.—Revised returns from Racine county complete for United States senator gave Davies 3,599; Lenroot, 4,179; Berger, 1,803. Judicial, Crownhart, 3,438; Rosenberry, 4,862. On the issue of a municipal coal yard the voters carried the bond by an overwhelming majority.

In Dane County. Madison, April 3.—With twenty out of sixty-nine precincts in Dane county still to be heard from, Lenroot with 6,912 votes, had nearly as many as his two opponents. Davies had 4,386 and Berger, 1,981, a total of 6,367, only 545 more than Lenroot vote. Lenroot carried thirty-eight of the fifty precincts accounted for, Davies eight and Berger three. The three which Berger carried were Middleton, Springfield and the village of Middleton. Springfield went for Berger with 164 with twenty-four for Lenroot and fifteen for Davies. In the same number of precincts Rosenberry received 7,722; Crownhart 4,886. Thirty-five precincts went to Rosenberry, thirteen to Crownhart and one, Waunakee, tie.

Early Report. Milwaukee, April 3.—Returns to seven o'clock on yesterday's senatorial election shows Lenroot, republican,

WAR AIMS OF WILSON DEFENDED IN MAINE

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] Portland, Me., April 3.—A vigorous defense of the war administration of Woodrow Wilson was a feature of the address of Governor Martin Glynn of New York, before the Democratic state convention in session here today.

The former governor of the Empire state launched into an eloquent plea for the retention of all Democratic congressmen in office and the sending of more Democrats to congress to aid in carrying out the Wilson "win-the-war" policy.

The convention was held in Portland city hall and over 1,500 delegates attended. Ex-Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, presided. The platform to be adopted by the convention will contain a complete endorsement of the conduct of the war by the Democratic administration. Whether or not there will be a platform on the prohibition law was a question that was being fought out in committee. A new Democratic state committee is being elected. The present state chairman is Thomas V. Doherty of Houlton.

OPERATIONS NEAR ARRAS ARE HALTED

FORCES ARE EVIDENTLY PREPARING FOR BIG SMASH WHICH IS EXPECTED AT ANY TIME.

AMIENS IS HUN GOAL

Allied Reserves Are Interact and Preparing to Make Counter-attack—Americans at the Front.

Military operations are almost at an ominous standstill on the 60 mile front from Arras to Chauny. At any hour the battle may again burst madly over the plains of Picardy. Their great attacks stand with heavy losses, the German leaders probably are preparing for another plunge toward Amiens, and British and French are busy preparing for the next great effort. Both armies are confident that the German attempt to separate the British and French will continue futile.

Reserves Intact. There is much significance in the announcement that the allied reserve army is still intact. This is the army of which General Poch has immediate command and which it is thought will be used in a counter offensive. Meanwhile more than 200,000 American soldiers are marching forward to the front. It is announced that American aviation mechanics have been assisting the British airmen on the battle front. Tuesday the Germans made no attack north or south of Somme.

Artillery Bombardment. North of Albert the British captured an enemy post. In the south the artillery bombardment was heavy between Montdidier and Noyon. While further east German detachments were driven back from the Oise. Small attacks have been repulsed by the French in the Weverre and in upper Alsace. Flinders there was a heavy artillery activity. The Germans have been bombarding the American sector northwest of Toul heavily. Inclement weather is hindering operations on the Meuse.

Repulse Attack. London, April 3.—British troops after sharp fighting, last night, repulsed determined attacks by German in the neighborhood of Esmous, the war office announced today.

HUNS RENEW ATTACK WITH MONSTER GUNS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, April 3.—The Germans again began to bombard Paris at 9:50 this morning.

Noyon Cathedral. Amsterdam, April 3.—The cathedral at Noyon is a fine, according to a semi-official statement from Berlin. The blaze is attributed by the Germans to a German bombardment. The cathedral at Noyon is one of the most beautiful French examples of the transition style of architecture of the eleventh and twelfth centuries. Additional work built in the fourteenth and sixteenth centuries.

Aviators Active. London, April 3.—British aviators were very active Monday on the battle front in France, dropping 17 tons of bombs and bringing down 16 German airplanes and two balloons. Eleven British machines were shot down. The official statement on aviation is that tonight says that night bombing squadrons dropped bombs on railroad stations behind the German line.

Secretary Lane in Address Declares That United States Will Play Noble Part in Climax of Terrible Conflict

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, April 3.—America can become a "composite and purposeful nation and impose no authority other than the compelling influence of action, sympathy and education," Secretary Lane declared today in an address to a conference called to plan the Americanization of many million native-born Americans and half-breeders of state governors, chairmen of state defense councils, heads of civic organizations, industrial leaders and business men gathered at the Johnson Hotel in Kansas City. A federal legislative program which calls for an appropriation to the bureau of education is to be fully considered and Americanization dealt with as a war measure to counteract the anti-American propaganda among aliens.

"To be an American," the secretary said, "was not to be satisfied with things as they are and to let things drift, but to realize that America, to be a compact nation, must assimilate its foreign born."

"We are trying a great experiment in the United States," he asserted. "Can we gather from the ends of the earth people of different races, creeds and conditions who can be merged into one? If we cannot we will fail. If we do we will produce the greatest of all nations and a new race that will hold a compelling place in the world. We should not be moved by fear. We should be moved by courage, by nothing to fear. Our

PEACE PACT WITH FRANCE IMPOSSIBLE

ONLY OBSTACLE TO FORMATION OF PEACE BETWEEN FRANCE AND AUSTRIANS WAS ALSACE-LORRAINE.

MUST FIND NEW BASIS

"We Are Not Fighting for Imperialistic or Annexationist Aims," Says Count Czernin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, April 3.—Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, in an address to the Vienna municipal council Tuesday declared Premier Clemenceau has asked Austro-Hungary on what basis she would negotiate peace, according to a dispatch from The Hague to the Daily Mail. Austria replied that the only obstacle to peace with France was Alsace-Lorraine, and Premier Clemenceau said it was impossible to negotiate on that basis.

Thereupon there was no choice left," continued Count Czernin's address. "The struggle in the west had already begun. Austro-Hungarian and German troops are fighting shoulder to shoulder. Come what may, we will not sacrifice German interests any more than she will leave us in the lurch."

"We are not fighting for imperialistic or annexationist aims for ourselves or Germany."

The Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, according to an Austrian dispatch, declared also that he had an earnest desire for peace and his country wished to avoid any further military offensive. After referring to his reply to Premier Clemenceau's speech, he said Austria would insist on the status quo, adding:

"The aspiration of France and Italy are utopias which will be terribly avenged."

Count Czernin declared he did not believe President Wilson in his recent address really desired to cause a separation between Vienna and Berlin because the president knew such a thing was impossible. The count added that President Wilson probably was Austria-Hungary's most favorable toward peace than Germany.

Almost Ready? Austria-Hungary was recently "almost on the point of entering into negotiations with the entente," Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, declared yesterday in an address. The "wind suddenly" he added, "has changed and we are awaiting developments in his country which caused it to hope that the dual monarchy would soon be defenseless." The foreign minister's words were:

"I do not intend to go begging for peace or to obtain it by entreaties and lamentations but by our own moral right and physical strength."

The minister declared that any other tactics would contribute to the prolongation of the war. In regard to Bulgaria's duty against service the foreign minister said:

"Bulgaria must receive from Serbia certain districts inhabited by Bulgarians. We have no objection to Serbia to develop and would welcome closer economic with her."

One Aim. "I have driven only after one aim, namely to secure an honorable peace to the monarchy and to create a situation which will secure to Austria-Hungary her future and her present, and moreover, to do everything possible to insure that this terrible war will be the last one for time out of mind. I have never spoken differently."

Count Czernin added here, however, his declaration that he had no intention of begging for peace.

Diplomatic Union. Washington, April 3.—Count Czernin's statement that France has suggested peace discussion with Austria-Hungary was characterized by officials here today as the beginning of a new German peace offensive against the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister asking at Germany's behest. The speech of Count Czernin, it was declared, was a political maneuver designed to spread the impression in the allied countries that the allied governments are fighting solely to recover Alsace-Lorraine. The peace movement, they said, was timed to follow the breakdown of the Teutonic offensive. Any Teutonic suggestion that the time for peace discussion is near at hand will find nothing but a negative response in America. At the state department it was made clear today that officials of this government do not believe the present great engagement in Europe will result in any weakening at the central or among nations at war against Germany. Count Czernin's statement that Premier Clemenceau had indicated a willingness to discuss peace with Germany was interpreted as a willful misrepresentation had been given to some statement of the French premier for the securing of a favorable reaction in France and co-belligerents.

ROWLAND HAS MADE A SUCCESS AS MANAGER

For International News.

New York, April 3.—He's only a husher. He'll never make good. This was the greeting they handed Clarence Rowland when he signed to manage the White Sox in the winter of 1914. It was anything but an encouraging reception. Some fellows would have taken it to heart and flunked. But not Rowland. He didn't mind being called a husher by his league writers. He was proud of his minor league record and he had confidence in himself and in Charles Comiskey.

They are calling Clarence Rowland the "Great Rowland." He is the present King Bee among managers. But it hasn't swelled him up bit. Trim, dapper, smiling and quiet-mannered, Clarence Rowland is just what a manager should be—able and free from anything that resembles chestiness as anyone can be. He has personality—the kind that wins friends. He goes along with his players, fans and the newspaper without half trying. He's proud of his world's champions and confident in himself, but he doesn't show it. And that's the big answer.

Rowland was never a big leaguer. He started out as a bat boy for Mike Donohue, so to speak. And from it he became a minor league manager, and a successful one, too. He learned baseball inside out in the minors. He became a keen judge of ball players. All he needed was the chance to show what his years of study amounted to. He got it and made good.

That's Clarence Rowland in a nutshell. In less than three years Rowland piloted the Chicago White Sox to a world's championship. He had a good ball club to lead with good players, good clubs, too. —had failed to win for him under other managers. Rowland made them win.

Rowland's tactics on the ball field are versatile. He has a mania for changing pitchers. He works his team on the theory that the fellow who mixes and plays his ball. His theory proved up in the 1917 world's series. Some folks may say that the Giants tossed the edge of those Sox. But just to play ball, and play it well to win.

Clarence Rowland is a "husher" who bloomed into a famous manager.

TOM GIBBONS WILL GUARD MIKE'S TITLE

For International News.

New York, April 3.—Tom Gibbons, the most neglected middleweight or light heavyweight in the country knows today, has slipped overnight into the shoes of his more illustrious brother, Mike, so far as the middleweight championship is concerned.

The sporting editor of the United Press has at hand a letter from Eddie Kane, manager of Tom, in which Eddie says Mike has gone into the business of training young men for the war and that it is very doubtful if he ever engages in a real fight again. And Mike has turned over his laurels to Tom to defend. Keeping it in the family is Mike's idea and he is positive Tom will prove a better defender of what belongs to the fighting Gibbons than Mike did.

Tom Gibbons has been fighting longer and with more better results than many boxers of real less ability who are getting more praise for their efforts. Perhaps the secret lies in the fact that Tom has absorbed a lightning killing stunt of his brother's—letting his opponents stay, for the most part without bothering his head in any way for a knockout.

Anyhow, Tom has Mike's shoes and is wearing them. Whether he will be unceremoniously yanked out of them some of these days by one of the many middleweights and promising light heavies remains to be seen. Fact is, though, that none of the light heavies nor middleweights has been able to separate Tom from a victory in any and many a day.

Mike's devotion to the army through his connection with it at Camp Dodge, Iowa, amounts to almost a mania. Always thorough when he was learning to box and all through his career as a star of his weight, Mike has gone in for this bayonet stuff, with both hands and no second thoughts.

"I believe Mike will end up with high honors in the army," Kane declares in the letter which bears the name of Mike's retirement.

Mike has tried hard and long to get the public to accept Tommy Gibbons as an honest-to-goodness fighter of the old Gibbons type, but somehow the publicity that always attended everything Mike did simply wouldn't attach itself to Tom for Mike. Now that Mike has ducked the thing and turned from boxing to the world there may be a different story to tell, for there are many stars of the middle and light heavy division who can kick to sufficient interest for the public to follow Mike O'Dowd and Harry Campbell are two of the huskies that Tom will have to down before he can sit up and howl that he's in.

BAPTIST BOWLERS CLEANED UP THE CHRISTIAN AGGREGATION ON 'Y' ALLEYS LAST NIGHT

Baptist bowlers trimmed the Christian aggregation on the Y. M. C. A. alleys last night by a majority of 148 maples. Although the score was not as high as many staged at the "Y" alleys, the church leaguers rolled a scored game from the start to the finish. The Baptists sent the pins spinning for a lead of 71 pins in the first inning and also copied the score, but in the last the Christians came back strong and trimmed them by a small margin. Grove for the Baptists led the scoring with 122, to his credit while Lawrence held the reputation of the Christians. The score is as follows:

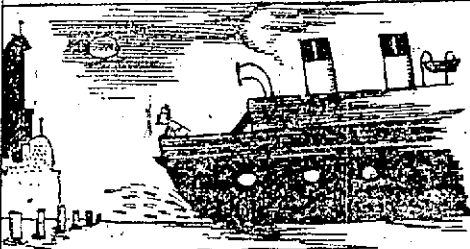

Baptists:
Olsen	141	133	115
Johnson	140	132	110
Clark	164	146	186
Pearson	175	162	161
Boys	161	155	202
Totals	751	745	704	2200
Christians:
Schaap	133	133	137
Lawrence	107	123	183
Johnson	111	119	177
Clark	120	121	131
Schaap	149	113	134
Totals	680	600	712	2052

The American Association is scheduled to play 140 instead of 168 games this year, and will begin operations on May 1. Already the wise men are predicting trouble for this organization. They say that players' salaries and overhead charges will swallow the receipts of all the clubs and that the Association will be in a bad way. The world it still is on July 4. This class A circuit throws up at the game in midsummer another attempt may be inaugurated to weld together eight cities, equally divided between the Association and the International league. This would be carrying out the Union league plan, which was thrown in the discard last September because bitter political politics proved too great an obstacle in the path of the schemers.

DRYS GAIN SEVERAL LARGE CITIES IN YESTERDAY'S VOTE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, April 3.—Superior, the third city in the state, Ashland and Beloit, surprised many voters by voting dry at yesterday's election. Port Atkins, Grand Rapids, Green Bay, Sturgeon Bay, Beaver Dam and Menominee were among the more important towns which voted in saloons. Beer has been wet for twenty-six years and thirty-two saloons will be put out of business. In Ashland there are fifty-five saloons. The dry claim to have retained Madison, the state capital, by thirty-four votes, while wet claim it by eleven. Nearly three hundred towns and villages voted on the liquor question and more than two-thirds remain to be heard from. Prohibition seems to have stolen a march in Wisconsin, judging from reports of the 250 cities, villages and towns in which local option was voted upon Tuesday.

The biggest surprise was seen in the returns from Superior and Beloit, both of which cities voted to put their saloons out of business. Madison, probably will remain dry.

Superior, the third largest city in Wisconsin, which last year voted wet by a majority of 26, went dry by a majority of 58. The vote attributes their defeat there to the absence of the soldier vote.

The voters of Beloit put thirty-two saloons into cold storage by giving the drys a majority of 253. It was Beloit's first dry victory in twenty-five years. The wet and drys have held elections for fourteen years. A few days ago William Jennings Bryan spoke in Beloit in the interest of the prohibitionists, and this is believed to have turned the tide. The campaign for the drys was backed by the manufacturers.

Claim Madison Dry.

The dry forces in Madison claim a majority of 33 votes, but the wets do not concede defeat and claim a victory by 31 votes. Both sides will probably demand an official count under supervision of their attorneys.

A big victory was scored by the wets in Port Atkins by a vote of 291. Last April the drys won out by 24 votes, and it was the general impression that the home town of Gov. Hoard would remain dry. It is alleged that increased taxes and lower bank deposits favored the wets.

Green Bay Is Wet.

Green Bay remains wet. In that place the drys had hoped for a victory. Nearly every spot in Brown county goes as a victory for the wets, including De Pere and West De Pere. In Brown county there was a wet and dry vote every precinct.

Warm fights were conducted in Stanley and Whitewater, which also had elections last year, during which the drys won. Tuesday they won again.

The village of Shorewood, formerly East Milwaukee, remains wet by a healthy majority. Last year it remained wet by the thirteen votes.

Marshon Bay voted wet by a vote of 3 to 1.

Only one man voted against saloons in the village of Oliver, Douglas county.

Most of the villages and towns that were wet remained wet and those that were dry remained dry.

Speaking of the result of the wet and dry contest throughout the state, W. H. Austin said, "In a campaign of misrepresentation the drys have carried three of the largest cities of the state, Beloit, Superior and Ashland. One of the contributory causes in the Superior result was that Duluth, just across the line, was dry."

"A contributing factor in Beloit was that 400 negroes had been brought there from the south, and the saloons refused to sell them drinks, which antagonized them."

"Throughout the balance of the state the wets made gains equal to their losses."

Delavan town and city both voted dry again. Elkhorn voted wet, while Whitewater remained dry by a majority of 199. Lake Geneva went wet. Darien is dry, as is Sharon; Geneva Junction and East Troy went wet.

Edgerton News

Edgerton Is Added to the Dry Column.

Edgerton, April 3.—Edgerton voted to discontinue the saloons in the city by 23 majority at the election held in the city yesterday. A total of 507 votes were cast in the city as compared with 359 cast at the primaries. The greatest number of votes ever cast in the city was 618. During the day both the wet and dry factions were busy getting people to the polls which accounts for the large number cast. There were ten votes cast by mail. During the day the Boy Scouts were on the streets circulating literature for the dry forces and in the afternoon they paraded the streets carrying banners. On the final count there were 238 votes cast for license and 331 against. Both factions have carried on a quiet campaign and up to election day very little had been done in regard to the campaign. For Mayor, J. J. Leary defeated H. M. Raymond by 20 votes. In the contest for city treasurer, M. H. Ford won over J. M. Conway by a majority of 63. A. H. Clark received 457 votes as assessor with no opposition. Byron Long received 451 for justice of the peace without opposition. The result of the election in the first ward was: Supervisor, D. P. Devine 120, W. T. Fomeroy 105; alderman, Frank Brown 189; Willie Pelton, constable, 12 votes. In the second ward George Doty was elected supervisor, receiving 147 votes. For alderman H. Wendenon received 107 votes with W. Dickenson receiving 84. M. H. Ford received 11 votes for constable. In the third ward, for supervisor, Van Ness Green received 84 votes and H. Thobott received 35.

The senatorial election in the city resulted in the following: Davies 126; Lenroot 313; Berger 83. For justice of the Supreme Court, Crownhart received 145 votes, Rosenberry, 275. For Circuit Judge, George Grimm received 429 and for municipal judge, Clark received 279 votes.

The town of Albion gave Lenroot 99, Davies 89, Berger 29, Crownhart 138, Rosenberry 125. The town of Pulten gave Lenroot 88, Davies 71, Berger 37, Crownhart 64, Rosenberry 76, Grimm 148 and Clark 99. Thomas Houie defeated Wm. Willie for town treasurer. After the votes on the license question were counted the Edgerton band played several selections on the street and there was a general rejoicing among the dry factions.

Mrs. L. Carpenter and daughter Melva departed for Savanna, Mo., where the former will enter a sanatorium.

Miss Iva Saunders, who has been enjoying a vacation from her duties at the Normal School at Stevens Point, departed for that city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Barrett returned the first of the week from a visit in Florida.

Word comes to the city from Tampa, Florida, of the death of Mr. George Silverwood. He was spreading the winter in the south in company with Mr. and Mrs. J. Naset. Mr. Silverwood was one of the pioneer residents of this vicinity and at the time of his death, past 90 years of age. He is survived by five children, Mrs. J. Naset, Mrs. W. Slagg, George Jr. of this vicinity, Thomas of Green Bay, and Percy of Seaside, Wis. Funeral services will be announced later.

NEW COMPLICATIONS.
 This war has brought wonderful inventions into play. From the day that unprepared Belgium with its tiny army, made its valiant and uncalculated attack on the German nation by objecting to being swallowed up in toto, and Germany, the poor, unfortunate, peaceful nation, was assailed with wonderful and maddening machinery, the war has been over night and began its march on Paris and Calais, neither of which have they reached after four years of struggling, one war invented after another has come in quick succession. An exchange in commenting upon the new long distance gun of the Germans, says:

"There is a symbolical meaning in the story of the German gun which is said to throw a shell seventy-six miles. Without swatting that gun in the way some newspapers have done, who prefer sensation to fact, it may be said that it has a bearing upon German strategy. It involves a form of terrorism. People are persuaded, by the unknown and mysterious, the hope that the more illustrating the German mind, is that shelling of this kind will create a panic among the French, with a consequent humiliating collapse like those witnessed in Russia and in northern Italy.

"But here is where the German psychology falls down. A panic is greatly different from a panic dropped from an aeroplane and there has been experienced that kind of warfare. The French people are as little likely to develop panic symptoms as the British. So far as our American soldiers are concerned they will view such devices with interest and even amusement. The German conception of war is indeed so barbaric that it seems to go back to the ancient methods of making faces at the enemy."

"There is great comfort in the situation now, and the mere withdrawal of the British from a part of the ground they conquered last year should not blind us to the facts of the situation. It is of the essence of the drive which the Germans made over a sixty-mile front, but particularly that point where the British and the French lines join, that it should be particularly successful at once. The scheme involved the rout and demoralization of the enemy. There was to be a surrender by battalions and brigades, and an advance through disintegrated army divisions, unable to reconstruct themselves before the irresistible power of the Hindenburg hammer.

"Nothing of the kind has occurred, and the Germans have expected a terrible number of soldiers in their effort to beat the hated British, to such end that even the famous German people may receive their warning from the promises of the war machine. They have undertaken on a larger scale a task like the effort of the crown prince against Verdun. They have calculated the results and the power of resistance, and in spite of all the inspired talk of German efficiency they have made their inevitable mistake of underestimating their adversaries.

"This may be the last desperate throw of the dice, but if that is so it is not too much to say that history heavy the fighting may be in the coming weeks and whatever 'cannon fodder' the Germans may waste, their gambling bet is lost already. If it did not succeed at the first thrust it becomes a mere waste of men, and is little likely to convince the German people that the results attained are worth the terrible sacrifice."

OUT WITH THE HOE.
 How about the war garden this spring? This April weather brings it to the fore. It is to be hoped that everyone who ran a garden last year will do it again. Some of those who had only partial success said last fall they would not. They looked at their poor yields of potatoes and beans, and could not see that they were paid for their labor and fertilizer and seed and other incidental bills.

Yet even those unsuccessful people raised some food. It helped keep down prices and assisted in feeding the soldiers. If they quit, the country will miss even the little they raised. And for every failure there was some good reason. Furthermore, the cause of failure can be ascertained and avoided another time. Anyone who has tried it a year should have acquired experience enough so that with a little intelligent planning and good advice he can get a good result another time.

There are millions of back yard gardeners in this country who last year raised products worth $50 to $100 each in their own yards. The assistance they gave to our country in this war is incalculable. They should do this year even better than they did last year.

And there are a great many people who did not try it last summer who should make the effort this time. There were some who predicted an over-supply of vegetables. But no such overstock has appeared. The drain for supplies to Europe is going to be more acute this year. The fact of Europe are suffering from lack of fertilizer and lack of man power. We must supply the difference. Every bushel of potatoes and beans provides food for some hungry and exhausted soldier, and helps give him his fighting strength.

A month of adverse weather conditions, severe drought or too much moisture, could seriously deplete our regular farm crops. In that case we would face actual hunger. It is only wise and prudent foresight for every family to have a little independent stock of its own to fall back upon.

There isn't quite so much objection to congressional distribution of garden seeds as formerly, but probably the effort will be made to win the war by distribution of large quantities of morning glory and sweet peas.

The army officers who want to take about two years to perfect all details of the attack, should reflect that this gives Germany two years to draw new materials from husted Russia.

It is surprising the enthusiasm and indefatigable industry with which the hens begin to lay as soon as someone tells them the price of eggs has gone down.

After setting out to boss the whole world, Germany thinks it might be wiser that she can't have the use of the best port locations in our harbors to help do it.

It must make the Red Tapers down at Washington dizzy to see things going through now without having to ask permission of every clerk in the department.

A large number of people have now their income tax returns all filed—in the forgotten pigeon hole where it will remain until the income tax deputy calls on them.

The man who condemns the farmers for not all buying tractors so they can also more food, is not always willing to lend the farmer any money on one.

Several generals sent home because physically unfit. It is indignantly denied that they were "relieved" when they were relieved.

The report that the Bolshevik leaders are planning to seek asylum in this country is all right, provided the insane asylum is what was meant.

Some people are preparing for the garden season by shining up to the neighbors from whom they hope later to receive gifts of vegetables.

The biggest day in the soldier's life is when he is promoted to be a corporal. Being made a general years later wouldn't compare with it.

The Kaiser is called "The beast of Berlin." Rather hard on the beasts who are innocent creatures doing the best they know how.

These business men who can only buy a $50 Liberty bond probably think it is strange that the government is so slow in pushing the war.

In old times it was a common remark that people would "jump for joy." Now they jump for joy-riders in automobiles.

The Germans have got to learn that the war can't be won by chasing cows that won't fight.

It is pretty tough on T. R. that he can't be over there getting wounded like Archie.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOUTON

A post-mortem statistician has a record that pork was $20 a barrel in Michigan just a hundred years ago. Which is the height of something or other, but we can't think just what.

The output of beer is to be again reduced—this time by 30 per cent, which leads our old friend, Col. Walter J. Davis to remark:
 "But away the little growler
 That our caps used to rush.
 Beer grows weaker and eke scarcer,
 And we can't support a lush.
 Papa, he is on the wagon.
 So is our nation, Sir John Bull:
 Even the boys are in the army.
 War is—just what Sherman said."

 It's up to us to get

Those German bombing raids on Paris shouldn't worry Secretary Baker much, after the way he was bombarded here at home.
 They had a sixty-mile gale in Washington the other day and he said they are accustomed to the terrific gales in congress.

THE THRIFT WAR STAMPS WILL STICK TO IT UNTIL WE WIN THE WAR.

The way it looks now, we will be pretty well prepared when the war is over, even if we weren't when it started, and that won't be a bad idea, either.
 When everybody else is groggy, we will be hitting our lyrdst.

According to Director McAdoo's latest ruling, upper borths must be saved, and no man will be allowed to buy a whole section of the ticket.
 That's right. Save the uppers. Save all of them, so far as we care. We never want one.

BEING ON OUR UPPERS IS NOT A PLEASANT PROSPECT.

 Seth Bull of East Liverpool, Ohio, says he can remember when folks used to eat a lot of eggs at Easter time.

Grandma Perkins of Sleepy Hollow, N. Y., claims she can remember having a butcher used to throw in a pound of liver with an order for a half pound of bacon.

These old folks probably mean to tell the truth, but one's memory often plays tricks in old age.

22 Million Families in the United States

4 CUPS OF WHEAT FLOUR TO THE POUND

If each family used 4 cups of flour less per week, the saving would be 22 million pounds or 112,244 barrels every week.

The greatest help housekeepers can give to win the war is to make this saving and it can be done by using this recipe in place of white flour bread.

MANY FARMERS WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE IN MADISON, APRIL 4

Madison, Wis., April 3.—Upwards of 400 farmers, warehousemen and county agricultural agents will attend a conference called by Gov. Philipp here for April 4, at the assembly chamber, to determine upon the methods for stimulating the use of potatoes.

At a meeting held between the governor, members of the council of defense and representatives of the special legislative committee it was decided to hold an immediate meeting here to determine upon plans.

Miss C. Riley, secretary of the special legislative committee, said that all of the members of the committee would be present at Thursday's conference. Approximately one-half of the yield of potatoes in Wisconsin is in the hands of the farmers, according to Mr. Riley.

The total yield of potatoes in Wisconsin for the year 1917, according to the figures of the department of agriculture, was 34,988,658 bushels. Based upon these figures, 14,000,000 to 17,500,000 bushels still remain in the hands of the farmers and in the warehouses.

Mr. Riley said that while there was no evidence of hoarding among the farmers, there were evidences of lack of transportation facilities. He said that in order to secure a large crop of potatoes this year, and to save farmers from a great loss of last year's crops, a conference had been determined upon. It is probable that the United States government will be asked to guarantee a potato price, or to take over the present excess crop.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION MAKES MANY CHANGES

Magnus Swenson, Federal Food Administrator, in Letter Urges People to Eat Potatoes and Meat and Conserve Breadstuffs.

A letter received from Magnus Swenson, federal food administrator, tells of the many changes made recently in the laws governing the food which are now plentiful, and conserve all the breadstuffs possible. The letter follows:

Madison, Wis., April 1. Bakers are hereby notified that rye flour cannot be used as a substitute for wheat flour after April 1. Beginning with April 14 all bakers must use 15% of substitutes in their bread.

Bakers may continue to use potatoes as wheat flour substitutes on a basis of four pounds of potatoes equal to one pound of other substitutes.

The use of sugar on bread and rolls is forbidden. It may be used on crackers and other pastry products.

All meatless days and meatless meals are hereby suspended by order of the U. S. food administration until May 1. This ruling is due to the fact that there is an unusual run of hogs in the market and limited storage capacity in packers' cellars and also a shortage of cars and a shortage of overseas transportation.

We urge people to eat more potatoes, milk, and meat of which there are now bountiful supplies, and conserve all the bread stuffs possible.

Wheat Flour. There is no change in the ruling to the effect that all consumers must purchase wheat flour and substitutes on the fifty-fifty basis.

After April 1 housewives and households should not purchase and consume to exceed one and one-half pounds of flour per person per week, or six pounds of flour per person per month. In this connection substitutes must be purchased as heretofore.

Hotels. Five hundred leading hotel men from all parts of the United States pledged themselves on March 30 to abolish absolutely the use of wheat products in their hotels and the next harvest in order that through their example an adequate shipment of wheat to the allies may be made. We ask all hotels, restaurants, and eating houses to co-operate in this agreement.

MAGNUS SWENSON, Federal Food Administrator. ANDREW H. NELVILLE, Executive Secretary.

Moving time will soon be here. If you have a vacant house or flat let the people know about it through the classified ads.

ENTIRE CITY TURNS OUT TO HONOR BOYS

DEPOT PLATFORM THROGGED WITH PEOPLE WHO CAME TO PAY TRIBUTE TO THE THIRTY-FIVE SELECTS.

GIVEN MANY PRESENTS

Presented With Numerous Gifts of Tobacco and Candy.—Parade to St. Paul Depot Was Most Impressive Sight.

Jamesville and Rock county paid a fitting tribute today to the thirty-five selected men from this district and the forty-five from the Beloit district who left shortly before eleven o'clock this morning for Fort Stevens, Oregon, to enter active military service.
Not only did the city turn out en masse to witness the departure of the men and to bid them God-speed, but hundreds of people from all parts of the county were present. The crowd which came to pay honor to these selected to serve Uncle Sam was variously estimated at from twenty-five hundred to three thousand people.

Business in all parts of the city was practically suspended during the time of the parade. The majority of the factories close down for an hour from 12:15 to 1:15, while the pupils of the high school were dismissed and allowed to go to the station. Practically every retail store was crowded with the surging masses long before the time for the departure of the contingent, and when the train pulled out for the north there were many friends of the local boys who had been unable to find them to say farewell and wish them good luck.

The boys were presented with all kinds of gifts, the donations of the people of Jamesville. When they gathered at the postoffice at nine o'clock each was given a Red Cross comfort kit by Mrs. J. E. Williams, who was in charge of that branch of the work of the local chapter of that organization.
Here they were also given large supplies of candy and tobacco which were purchased with the money donated by the good people of Jamesville, and were distributed by Joe Delaney. Upon arriving at the depot they were presented with a beautiful American flag by the women members of Green's warehouse and the I. Lewis Cigar company. The money for the purchase of Old Glory was the result of the entirely voluntary subscription and people may feel that the boys are deeply grateful for the gift.

To provide amusement for the young men during their long journey at nine o'clock this morning on each of the thirty-five men was pinned a blue ribbon with the inscription, "In the Service of Our Country, Division No. 1, Rock county, Wisconsin." It was received by the contingent of the city of Jamesville. The train was then chosen by the board to act as leader for the entire contingent during the trip, while J. E. Williams, who was appointed as assistant leader, they were separated into four squads of each, and one man of each squad was placed in charge.

Properly at nine-thirty the Bower
City band met in front of the Bower
City and played several selections.
Here the two high school military companies, the Jamesville and Beloit High School Separate company, under the command of Lieutenant Victor Hem-mings, lined up, and headed by the band they marched to the most office.
The contingent of thirty-five selects fell in line and the parade proceeded to Milwaukee street. It proceeded north on Milwaukee street
Academy and thence north to the St.
Paul depot.

Both sides of the street were lined with spectators and upon arriving at the depot the platform was thronged.
The band played several pieces during the time before the train left and a few minutes before the boys moved northward on the first lap of their long trip, the "Star-Spangled Banner" was played.

There was little demonstration at the train pulled out, the people fully recognizing the seriousness of the occasion and were moved to the rear of the station. The departure of the contingent was impressive. The people on the platform with tears in their eyes, but smiles on their faces, bade a last adieu to the boys who returned to the boys with the waving of hands and a few words.

the purpose of getting the fuel dealers of the county together to discuss account of the county fuel situation.

The fuel question is one which is affecting this country for a very great extent last winter and it is going to be a paramount problem this winter

MARINES RAISE PIGEONS
FOR PERSHING'S ARMY
Paris Island, S. C., March 3.—In response to General Pershing's recent call for 5,000 carrier pigeons, U. S.
Marines here, who have aided the Government in nearly every conceivable manner heretofore, again have come into the pigeon-raising campaign.

The carrier is an invaluable little weapon in the war, but is far too scarce for the present needs. So careful have begun the training of them on the island, having secured 300 of the birds from the homes of various members of the Marine Corps.
Starting with short flights on the island and increasing the distance to neighboring towns, plans are now being made for trial flights from Washington, D. C., to the camp.

Measles, although several have been lost in training, the carriers are rapidly increasing in numbers, and the Marines are hoping to be able to fill General Pershing's order by themselves. In addition, sending the pigeons across the water already trained in their line of duty.

She found on her arrival his company first sergeant, the couple pulled their field out of the line and proceeded to a waiting station, where the knot was tied. Then the couple marched back to the line, and amid the cheers of the troops, Hatfield kissed his bride a few moments "good-bye" and as he stepped aboard a train bound "some-

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Francis Wilburn Carpenter, one of the most popular of child actors, was born in Glenwood Springs, Colo., July 3, 1911. His earliest ambition was to be a policeman, after which he decided that the life of the cowpuncher was just the thing. Since he has taken to acting, however, he has discovered the life of the policeman is the summa bonum, the dolce far niente and all those other foreign phrases. If Francis could be as great a scout as William Farnum he'd be happy for life.

Francis' education was begun at the Fine Arts school for child actors in Hollywood. After he had been there two weeks he changed his acting address to the Fox studio and took his slates along with him. At the Fox school he has learned to read, and he can print out his first name completely, although occasionally his mistakes are backwards; incidentally, he also occasionally makes the N. backward. That doesn't make much difference.

Francis' theatrical career began at the Fine Arts studio when he was three and a half years of age.

SESSUE WON'T GO—Sessue Hayakawa has been obliged to refuse the offer of a long tour of the speaking stage of Japan—or, at least, to postpone it indefinitely. It was at first reported that the star would leave for the Orient immediately upon the completion of his last two pictures for Lasky. Now, it develops preparations for the new Hayakawa company are engaging his time to such an extent that he cannot leave America without serious detriment to the new organization. He declares, however, that he will visit Japan as soon as possible, taking his wife, Tsuru Aoki, with him as leading woman.

BRUCE FOR SCOTLAND—Beverly Bruce is going to Scotland at the completion of "Ladies for Ladies," her first own production, for the avowed purpose of filming Scott's "Ladies of the Lake" on the site of the original locations. Francis Powers has been engaged by her for an important part in the film now in the making. Willard Bradley, "the mayor of Greenwich village," is the author.

Taylor Holmes and his director, Lawrence Windom, having completed their contract with Essanay, have returned to New York city. A Pair of Sixes" is the last picture filmed by him. It is reported that he will appear soon in a new role on the speaking stage.

Hamilton Smith, well known scenario writer, has signed a long time contract to furnish scripts for World Pictures. He will devote his efforts to stories for the use of little Madge Evans.

"The Making of a Newspaper," one of the features of the Universal Screen Magazine, is proving an unusually popular feature of this magazine. The series started with the making of white paper, and following the newspaper office, showed the gathering and handling of news. It is planned to present every step in the handling of a big story, until the paper is delivered to the reading public.

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

RAINBOW'S END

A NOVEL

CHAPTER I.

The Valley of Delight.
In all probability your first view of the valley of the Yumuri will be from the Hermitage of Montserrat, for it is there that the cocheros drive you. There you overlook the fairest sight in all Christendom—"the loveliest valley in the world," as Humboldt called it—for the Yumuri nestles right at your feet, a vale of pure delight, a glimpse of Paradise that bewilders the eye and fills the soul with ecstasy.

Standing beside the shrine of Our Lady of Montserrat, you will see beyond the rift through which the river emerges another hill, La Cumbre, from which the view is wonderful, and your driver may tell you about the splendid homes that used to grace its slopes in the golden days when Cuba had an aristocracy. Your cochero may point out a certain grove of orange trees, now little more than a rank tangle, and tell you about the quinta of Don Esteban Varona, and its hidden treasure: about little Esteban and Rosa, the twins; and about Sebastian, the giant slave, who died in fury, taking with him the secret of the well.

The Spanish Main is rich in tales of treasure-trove, for when the Antilles were most affluent they were least secure, and men were put to strange shifts to protect their fortunes. Certain hoards, like jewels of tragic history, in time assumed a sort of evil personality, not infrequently exercising a dire influence over the lives of those who chanced to fall under their spells. It was as if the money were accursed, for certainly the seekers often came to evil. Of such a character was the Varona treasure. Don Esteban himself was neither better nor worse than other men of his time, and although part of the money he had won from the toil of slaves and the traffic in their bodies, much of it was clean enough, and in time the earth purified it all. Since his acts made so deep an impress, and since the treasure he left played so big a part in the destinies of those who came after him, it is well that some account of these matters should be given.

The story, please remember, is an old one; it has been often told, and in the telling and retelling it is but natural that a certain glamour, a certain tropical extravagance, should attach to it, therefore you should make allowance for some exaggeration, some accretions due to the lapse of time. In the main, however, it is well authenticated and runs parallel to fact.

Donna Rosa Varona lived barely long enough to learn that she had given birth to twins. Don Esteban, whom people knew as a grim man, took the blow of his sudden bereavement as became one of his strong fiber. Leaving the priest upon his knees and the doctor busied with the babies, he strode through the house and out into the sunset, followed by the walls of the slave women.

Don Esteban was at heart a selfish man, and now, therefore, he felt a sudden, fierce resentment mingled with his grief. What trick was this? he asked himself. What had he done to merit such misfortune? Had he not made rich gifts to the church? Had he not knelt and prayed for his wife's safe delivery and then hung his gifts upon the sacred image, as Loyola had hung up his weapons before that other counterpart of Our Lady? Don Esteban scowled at the memory, for those gems were of the finest.

He looked up from his unhappy musings to find a gigantic bare-footed negro standing before him. The slave was middle-aged; his kinky hair was growing gray; but he was of superb proportions, and the muscles which showed through the rents in his cotton garments were as smooth and supple as those of a stripling. His black face was puckered with grief, as he began:

"Master, is it true that Donna Rosa?" The fellow choked.
"Yes," Esteban nodded, wearily, "she is dead, Sebastian."
Tears came to Sebastian's eyes and overflowed his cheeks; he stood motionless, striving to voice his sympathy. At length he said:
"She was too good for this world. God was jealous and took her to Paradise." The widowed man cried out angrily, "Paradise! What is this but Paradise? He stared with resentful eyes at the beauty round about him. "See! The Yumuri!" Don Esteban flung a long arm outward. "Do you think there is a sight like that in heaven? Paradise indeed! I gave her everything. She gained nothing by dying."

With a grave thoughtfulness which proved him superior to the ordinary slave, Sebastian replied:

"True! She had all that any woman's heart could desire, but in return for your goodness she gave you children. You have lost her, but you have gained an heir, and a beautiful girl baby who will grow to be another Donna Rosa. I grieved as you grieve, once upon a time, for my woman died in childbirth, too. You remember? But my daughter lives, and she has brought sunshine into my old age. That is the purpose of children." He paused and shifted his weight uncertainly, digging his stiff black toes into the dirt. After a time he said, slowly: "Excellency! Now, about the well—"

"Yes. What about it?"
"Did the Donna Rosa confide her share of the secret to anyone? Those priests and those doctors, you know—"
"She died without speaking."
"Then it rests between you and me?"
"It does, unless you have babbled."
"Master!" Sebastian drew himself up and there was real dignity in his black face.

"Understand, my whole fortune is there—everything, even to the deeds of patent for the plantations. If I thought there was danger of your betraying me I would have your tongue pulled out and your eyes torn from their sockets."
The black man spoke with a simplicity that carried conviction: "Times are unsettled, Don Esteban, and death comes without warning. You are known to be the richest man in this province and these government officials are robbers. Suppose—I should be left alone? What then?"

The planter considered for a moment. "Well, when my children are old enough to hold their tongues they will have to be told. If I'm gone, you shall be the one to tell them. Now leave me; this is no time to speak of such things." Sebastian went as noiselessly as he had come. On his way back to his quarters he took the path to the well—the place where most of his time was ordinarily spent. Sebastian had dug this well, and with his own hands he had beautified its surroundings until they were the loveliest on the Varona grounds. It was Sebastian's task to keep this place green, and thither he took his way, from force of habit.

Through the twilight came Pancho Cuelo, the manager, a youngish man, with a narrow face and bold, close-set eyes. Spying Sebastian, he began: "So Don Esteban has an heir at last!"
The slave rubbed his eyes with the heel of his huge yellow palm and answered, respectfully:
"Yes, Don Pancho. Two little angels, a boy and a girl." His gray brows drew together in a painful frown.
"Donna Rosa was a saint. No doubt there is great rejoicing in heaven at her coming. Eh? What do you think?"
"Um! Possibly. Don Esteban will miss her for a time and then, I dare say, he will remarry." At the negro's exclamation Cuelo said: "So! And why not? Everybody knows how rich he is. From Oriente to Pinar del Rio the women have heard about his treasure."
"What treasure?" asked Sebastian, after an instant's pause.
Cuelo's dark eyes gleamed resentfully at this show of ignorance, but he laughed.
"Ho! There's a careful fellow for you! No wonder he trusts you. But do you think I have neither eyes nor ears? My good Sebastian, you know all about that treasure; in fact, you know far more about many things than Don Esteban would care to have you tell. Come now, don't you?"

Sebastian's face was like a mask carved from ebony. "Of what does this treasure consist?" he inquired. "I have never heard about it."
"Of gold, of jewels, of silver bars and precious ornaments," Cuelo's head was thrust forward, his nostrils were dilated, his teeth gleamed. "Oh, it is somewhere about, as you very well know! Bah! Don't deny it. I'm no fool. What becomes of the money from the slave girls, eh? And the sugar crops, too? Does it go to buy arms and ammunition for the rebels? No. Don Esteban hides it, and you help him. Come," he cried, disregarding Sebastian's murmurs of protest, "did you ever think how fabulous that fortune must be by this time? Did you ever think that one little gem, one bag of gold, would buy your freedom?"
"Don Esteban has promised to buy my freedom and the freedom of my girl."

"So?" The manager was plainly surprised. "I didn't know that." After a moment he began to laugh. "And yet you pretend to know nothing about that treasure? Ha! You're a good boy, Sebastian, and so I am. I admire you. We're both loyal to our master, eh? But now about Evangelina." Cuelo's face took on a craftier expression. "She is a likely girl, and when she grows up she will be worth more than you, her father. Don't forget that Don Esteban is before all else a business man. He cares not that some one doesn't make him so good an offer for your girl that he will forget his promise—and sell her."

Sebastian uttered a hoarse, animal cry and the whites of his eyes showed through the gloom. "He would never sell Evangelina!"

Cuelo laughed aloud once more. "Of course! He would not dare, eh? I am only teasing you. But see! You have given yourself away. Everything you tell me proves that you know all about that treasure."

"I know but one thing," the slave declared, stiffening himself slowly, "and that is to be faithful to Don Esteban." He turned and departed, leaving Pancho Cuelo staring after him meditatively.

In the days following the birth of his children and the death of his wife, Don Esteban Varona, as had been his custom, steered a middle course in politics, in that way managing to avoid a clash with the Spanish officials who ruled the island, or an open break with his Cuban neighbors, who rebelled beneath their wrongs. Esteban dealt diplomatically with both factions and went on raising slaves and sugar to his own great profit.

The twins, Esteban and Rosa, developed into healthy children and became the pride of Sebastian and his daughter, into whose care they had been given. As for Evangelina, the young negress, she grew tall and strong and handsome, until she was the finest slave girl in the neighborhood.

Then, one day, Don Esteban Varona remarried, and the Donna Isabel, who had been a famous Habana beauty, came to live at the quinta. The daughter of impoverished parents, she had heard and thought much about the mysterious treasure of La Cumbre.

Before the first fervor of his honeymoon cooled the groom began to fear that he had made a serious mistake. Donna Isabel, he discovered, was both vain and selfish. Not only did she crave luxury and display, but with singular persistence she demanded to know all about her husband's financial affairs.

Now Don Esteban was no longer young; age had soured him with suspicion, and when once he saw himself as the victim of a mercenary marriage he turned bitterly against his wife. Her curiosity he sullenly resented, and he unobtrusively denied his possession of any considerable wealth. In fact, he tried with malicious ingenuity to make her believe him a poor man. But Isabel was not of the sort to be readily deceived. Finding her arts and coquetties of no avail, she flew into a rage, and a furious quarrel ensued—the first of many. For the lady could not rest without knowing all there was to know about the treasure.

She searched the quinta, of course, whenever she had a chance, but she discovered nothing—with the result that the mystery began to engross her whole thought. She tried into the obscurest corners, she questioned the slaves, she lay awake at night listening to Esteban's breathing, in the hope of surprising his secret from his dreams. At length a time came when they lived in frank enmity; when Isabel never spoke to Esteban except in reproach or anger, and when Esteban unlocked his lips only to taunt his wife with the fact that she had been thwarted despite her cunning.

It was only natural under such conditions that Donna Isabel should learn to dislike her stepchildren—Esteban had told her frankly that they would inherit whatever fortune he possessed. As may be imagined, she found ways to vent her spite upon the twins. She widened her hatred so as to include old Sebastian and his daughter, and even went so far as to persecute Evangelina's sweetheart, a slave named Aseulio.

Caroline entered the barn. She came straight to him and put her hands upon the lapels of his coat. Her eyes were wet and shining.

"Caroline!" he faltered eagerly. "You good man!" she breathed softly. "Oh, you good man!"

"Caroline!" His voice shook, but there was hope in it. "Caroline, you're going to take the money?"

"Yes, Uncle Elisha. Mr. Sylvester has shown me that I must. He says you will do something desperate if I refuse."

"I sartin would! And you'll take it really?"

"Yes, Uncle Elisha." "Glorious! And—and, Caroline, you won't hold it against me, my makin' you live in that little place and get along on just so much, and all that? Can you forgive me for doin' that?"

"Forgive you? Can I ever thank you enough? I know I can't, but I can try all my life to prove what—"

"S-s-s-h! S-s-s-h! There!" with a great sigh, almost a sob, of relief, "I guess this'll be a real Thanksgiving after all."

But a few minutes later another thought came to him.

"Caroline!" he asked. "I wonder if now that things are as they are, you couldn't do somethin' else—somethin' that would please me an awful lot?"

"What is it, uncle?"

"It's somethin' perhaps I ain't got any right to ask. The other day you told me you cared for Jim Pearson but that you sent him away 'cause you thought you had to earn a livin' for you and Steve. Now you know that you ain't got to do that. And you said you told him if you ever changed your mind you'd send for him. Don't you s'pose you could send for him now—right off—so he could get here for this big Thanksgiving of ours? Don't you think you could, Caroline?"

"Send for him—now?" she asked in a low tone.

"Yes, now—right off—in time for to-morrow."

"He could not get here," she whispered.

"Yes, he could. If you send him a telegram with one word in it—'Come'—and sign it 'Caroline' he'll be here on tomorrow mornin' train or I'll eat my hat and one of Abbie's bonnets have in. Think you could, Caroline?"

A moment, then in a whisper, "Yes, Uncle Elisha."

"Hooryay! But—but," anxiously, "hold on, Caroline. Tell me truly now. You ain't doin' this just to please me? You mustn't do that, not for the world and all. You mustn't send for him on my account; only just for one reason—because you want him."

He waited for his answer. Then she looked up, blushing still, but with a smile trembling on her lips.

"Yes, Uncle Elisha," she said, "because I want him."

The clouds blew away that night, and Thanksgiving day dawned clear and cold. The gray sea was now blue. The white paint of the houses and fences glistened in the sun. The groves of pitch pine were brilliant green, blotches spread like rugs here and there on the brown hills. South Denbora had thrown off its gloomy raincoat and was "all dolled up for Thanksgiving," so Captain Elisha said.

The captain and Sylvester were leaning on the fence by the gate, looking up the road and waiting for Dan and the "two seater" to leave in sight around the bend. The hired man had harnessed early and driven to the station at least thirty minutes before train time. Captain Elisha was responsible for the early start. Steve was coming on that train. Possibly some one else was coming. The captain did not mean they should find no welcome or vehicle at the station.

The whistle had sounded ten minutes before. It was time for Dan to appear at the bend.

"I hope to thunder Jim got that telegram," observed the captain for the twentieth time at least since breakfast.

"Say Doctor, This Prescription Works Like Magic"—Physician Explains Why Nuxated Iron

Quickly Increases the Strength and Energy of Men and Brings Roses to the Cheeks of Nervous, Run-down Women.

Ask the first hundred strong healthy looking people you meet to tell you how they got their strength and energy and are how many reply "Nuxated Iron."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Quadrant Dept.) of New York and the Westchester County Hospital says: "Thousands of nervous, run-down, anemic people suffer from iron deficiency. You do not know what to take. There is nothing like organic iron—Nuxated Iron to quickly enrich the blood, and thereby put roses in the cheeks of women and give men increased strength and energy."

Unlike the older forms of iron, Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach, but is readily assimilated and you can quickly recognize its action by a renewed feeling of vigor.

No matter what other iron remedies you have used without success, if you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test.

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; then take two or three tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURER'S NOTE.—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sullivan can be obtained from any druggist or from the physician's prescription, on an absolute guarantee of success by its manufacturers or money refunded if it fails to produce the desired results. Smith Drug Co. and all good druggists.

"Hope so. It didn't do me any harm," with a chuckle. "I wouldn't have missed that little beat up the bay with Marm Dunn for a good deal. For a spell there we was bows abreast, and 'twas hard to tell who'd turn the mark first."

Sylvester laughed. "I'll tell you what, Captain Warren," he said. "I never saw you in better spirits. Do you know what I think? I think that for a chap who has just given away half of a good sized fortune and intends giving away the other half you're the most cheerful specimen I ever saw."

The captain laughed too. "I am, ain't I?" he said. "Well, I can say truthful what I never expected to say in my life—that once I was with half a million dollars. As for the rest of it, I'm like that millionaire—'that—' Hi! Look! There comes Dan! See him?"

"Steve!" cried the captain excitedly. "There's Steve! And—and—yes, there's somebody on the back seat. It's Jim! He's come! Hooryay!"

"Wait!" Sylvester cried. "I don't want to lose the rest of that sentence. You said you were like some millionaire. Who?"

"Don't bother me!" cried Captain Elisha. "Who? Why, I was going to say I was like that millionaire every time he wakes up and happens to think of it. You know who I mean. A-hoy there, Jim! A-hoy, Steve!"

He was waving his hand to the passengers in the approaching vehicle.

"That's the feller. I've come to feel about the way he says he does—that 'twould be a crime for me to be rich."

THE END.

NORTHEAST PORTER
Northeast Porter, April 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Helme Herried and Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Genson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eliza and children of Milwaukee spent the week-end at Ernest Haylock's.

Edith Gardiner spent Saturday in Janesville.

Mrs. S. C. Humphrey of Edgerton spent Wednesday at Mr. Haylock's.

Mrs. Harry Boothroyd has returned from a short visit with her son in Janesville.

Mrs. Laura Ramsey of Janesville is visiting at Ernest Haylock's.

Mrs. Edwin Genson spent a couple of days last week at Charles Nelson's. Glenn Gardiner is home on a short furlough from the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Mrs. Ella Peach spent one day last week with Mrs. Steril Hartzell.

The lady of good family was showing her ancestral home to her son. She pointed with special pride to a bust of her father.

"And that, Bobbie," she said, "is your grandfather."

Bobbie looked surprised.

"Is that all there was of him?" he asked.

Name Made No Difference.
A little miss was visiting at a home where two elderly women were stopping. One had a name easily remembered, but the other had an unusual one. Upon being presented to them the little girl looked pensive for a moment, but she quickly solved her difficulty by saying: "How are you, Grandma B and Grandma More?"

Mothers! Here's Something New For Croup and Cold Troubles

An External Treatment That Replaces Internal "Dosing." You Can Let the Children Run Outdoors in All Weathers and Get Their Needed Fresh Air and Exercise.

Growing children need plenty of fresh air and outdoor exercise and this exposure is bound to cause some colds. These colds should not be neglected, and yet, mothers know that constant "dosing" is bad for the delicate stomachs of children.

The best protection is plenty of fresh air in the bedroom, and at the first signs of trouble a prompt application of the Southern External "vapor" treatment, Vick's VapoRub. You simply rub it well over the throat and chest, and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

Love the covering loose around the neck, as the body heat releases medicated vapors that are inhaled all night long, loosening the phlegm and opening the air passages. In addition, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness in the chest. Usually croup is relieved within 15 minutes and colds over night.

The local druggists realize the value of an external treatment, especially in the case of small children, and in the interest of their customers, are offering VapoRub in any of the three sizes—25c, 50c or $1.00—on 30 days' trial. If you are not delighted with the results, the purchase price will be refunded.
